

Cover Letter - Student Experience Adviser, University of Auckland

Dear Andrew Williams,

I am applying for the Student Experience Adviser role at the University of Auckland. I am currently based in Auckland and working as an Operations & Business Support Coordinator at Mindhive, where I support procurement, finance administration, office operations, and cross-team coordination in a fast-moving environment.

The part of this role that stands out to me is creating co-curricular experiences that help students feel connected, supported, and engaged. In my previous role at Marie International School, I coordinated programmes and events across multiple campuses, supported 100+ students and families, and acted as a primary liaison across leadership, staff, parents, and external partners. I also coordinated 10+ cross-campus initiatives, including larger events with 150+ attendees, and used surveys and feedback to improve programme delivery.

I also bring direct experience from Takapuna Primary School in Auckland, where I supported after-school programme delivery and student engagement activities. Across these roles, I have worked closely with students and families from diverse cultural backgrounds, and I am comfortable building relationships, communicating clearly, and responding to changing needs.

I have not worked in a tertiary setting, and I understand the university context is broader and more complex. I also recognise that equity in Aotearoa New Zealand and Te Tiriti o Waitangi obligations are core in this role. While this is an area I am continuing to build, I take it seriously and would approach it with care, respect, and active learning.

I am motivated by practical, people-focused work. The University's focus on belonging, wellbeing, and student success is a strong match with the way I have supported communities in my previous roles. I would value the opportunity to contribute to Student Support and Engagement and help deliver initiatives that make a real difference for students.

Yours sincerely, Inna Popova 027-392-0067 innapv@gmail.com
