

Cover Letter - Executive Operations Partner

Dear Hiring Manager,

I am applying for the Executive Operations Partner role. I currently support Mindhive in Auckland as an Operations & Business Support Coordinator. My day-to-day work includes office operations, procurement coordination, finance administration, facilities support, and cross-team communication in a fast-moving environment.

In this role, I coordinate supplier communication, quotes, purchase orders, invoice follow-up, and delivery tracking. I also support internal documentation and process improvement, and I use AI-assisted tools to improve communication and workflow productivity. This aligns closely with your focus on strong administrative support, systems adoption, and reducing friction in day-to-day operations.

Previously, at Marie International School in Japan, I worked through a period of rapid growth across multiple campuses. I coordinated daily operations across functional areas, managed schedules and workflow coordination for 20+ staff, maintained compliance and operational documentation, and handled 50+ weekly enquiries across leadership, staff, families, partners, and suppliers. I also supported onboarding and integration of new team members and coordinated cross-campus programmes and events from planning through delivery.

My background is stronger in operations and programme coordination than in a role titled as a dedicated executive assistant. Even so, the core requirements in your posting are familiar to me: staying organised at pace, communicating clearly, improving processes, and supporting teams as priorities shift.

I am interested in this opportunity because it combines executive support, office operations, and continuous process improvement. I would value the chance to bring practical structure, reliable follow-through, and warm professional communication to your team.

Warm regards,

Inna Popova
